Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-27 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Arimoto et al. (US 6,232,793 B1) in view of Kaplinsky (US 5,568,062).

Arimoto discloses all of the claimed limitations as stated in the previous Office Action but does not disclose that each of the two transistors having its gate coupled to receive a control signal the logical reverse of the control signal received by the other transistor.

Kaplinsky discloses that a pMOS transistor can be replaced by an nMOS transistor with an addition of an inverter at the gate of the nMOS transistor to minimize power dissipation (col. 3, lines 5+).

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of applicant's invention to have replaced the pMOS transistor of the selector switch (10b or 11b) of Arimoto with an nMOS transistor with an addition of an inverter at the gate of the nMOS transistor as taught by Kaplinsky in order to minimize power dissipation.

Response to Arguments

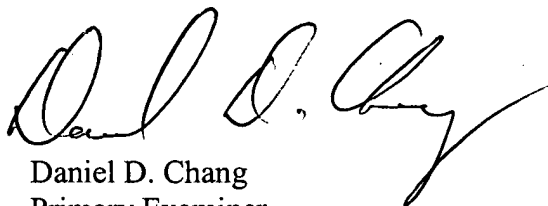

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-27 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
